

“You knew” lyrics provided by Michael Roper

1

Now hear our song from twenty twenty.
Now global warming isn't new.
The years you wasted were too plenty.
You left the problem up to who?

You knew our world would be in trouble
As your emissions grew and grew.
You said it's only froth and bubble.
But did you really have a clue?

Chorus

You knew grandpa, you knew.
So tell me what did you do?
You knew, grandma, you knew.
So tell me what did you do?

2

Now hear our song from twenty thirty.
We hope it's getting through to you.
Why did your power stay so dirty?
How come you didn't just renew?

You left your CO<sub>2</sub> above us
While you just flew and flew and flew.
You chose a funny way to love us
To leave a greenhouse warming brew.

Chorus

3

Now hear our song from twenty forty.
Sit up and listen to our view

That you were selfish & were naughty
To leave our world in such a stew.

You knew the temperature was rising
You hoped that it might stop at two.
It's more. And so it's not surprising,
That we can put the blame on you.

Chorus

4
You knew you really couldn't hack it.
To make the change when it was due.
And now it's gonna cost a packet
To fix what you neglected to.

You knew, clean coal was not the future,
Clean gas an oxymoron too
You had a lovely life to suit ya
And never wanted to say Whoa
